1.	Withe	th reg	ard to the language, this opinion has been established on the basis of the international application in large in which it was field, unless otherwise indicated under this item.
		·ung	opinion has been established on the basis of a translation from the original language into the following uage , which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search er Rules 12.3 and 23.1(b)).
2.	With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed invention, this opinion has been established on the basis of:
	a. t	ype of	material:
	١	□a	sequence listing

1		quently it has not been possible to consider the validity of the priority claim. This opinion has heless been established on the assumption that the relevant date is the claimed priority date.
2. 🗆	has be	pinion has been established as if no priority had been claimed due to the fact that the priority claim then found invalid (Rules 43 bis .1 and 64.1). Thus for the purposes of this opinion, the international that all the indicated above is considered to be the relevant date.

Claims 10-15 are directed to a method of treatment of the human/animal body and therefore no preliminary examination is required (Rule 67.1(iv) PCT). Moreover, it is noted by the IPEA that for the assessment of Claims 10-15 on the question whether their subject-matter is industrially applicable, no unified criteria exist in the PCT. The patentability under national patent laws can also be dependent on the formulation of the claims. The EPO, e.g., does not recognize the subject-matter of claims to the use of a compound in medical treatment as being industrially applicable, but will allow, however, claims to a known compound for the manufacture of a medicament for a new medical treatment.

(V)

Having regard to the International Search Report as well as the prior art cited by the Applicant in the description the claimed subject-matter differs from document (D1) WO 00/47599 due to the present definition of "A, R1" therein compared with present -N-R3-C(=O)R1 and R4c respectively.

Moreover, it is noted by the IPEA that doc.(D2) WO 03/084949, a P-document not relevant at this stage, discloses similar compounds bearing a carbonyl link group, thus differing from present "Q" group.

It is further noted that the reasons for introducing the disclaimer with regard to R<sup>5</sup>/R<sup>6</sup> into Claim 1 are not clear with regard to the structural difference vis a vis (D1), or even (D2).

The requirements of Art.33(2) PCT appear to be fulfilled.

The problem underlying the present invention appears to be the provision of further compounds useful as 5-HT<sub>1F</sub>-anti migraine agents. The novel structural features of the present compounds, when compared with the ant-migraine compounds known from (D1) or the common technical knowledge, are not considered to be derivable in an obvious manner. The solution to the technical problem thus appears to be non obvious in the light of (D1).

Accordingly the requirements of Art.33(3) PCT appear to be fulfilled, provided that all compounds claimed under formula (I) possess the desired 5HT<sub>1F</sub>-agonistic properties. In this respect reference is made to the fact that no compounds appear to have been prepared and tested by the Applicant wherein R<sup>2</sup> is other than methyl; R<sup>1</sup>= (substituted) heterocycle does not specify the number of carbon- or heteroatoms, thus appearing to be vague and speculative in this respect.
